Guest of Miss Hagan.
Miss Olivia Kay, of Jacksonville, Fla., is the house guest of Miss Katherine Hagan at 409 East Franklin Street.

Miss Kay, who was one of the attractive group of young girls presented to society in Jacksonville this season, has recently returned from an extended visit to friends in New York City, where she was much entertained.

Hoag—Hoover.
An unusually pretty wedding took place last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Powell in Washington, D. C., when their niece, Miss Katherine Hoover, daughter of the late Naval Constructor John B. Hoover, D. S. N., of Elizabeth, N. J., became the bride of Alfred Hoag, of Hampton Roads, Va. Quantities of white carnations, maidenhair ferns and palms were artistically arranged in the drawing room, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. James H. W. Blake at 8 o'clock, and which was witnessed only by the relatives and close friends of both families. The bride, who was given away by her aunt, Miss Sophia Hoover, wore an exquisite gown of white satin trimmed with pearls and folds of chiffon, and with the most delicate sleeves of duchess lace. Miss Isabelle Hoover, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids, Miss Catherine Powell, Miss Martha Powell and Miss Terrell Worthemir, of Hampton, Va., were dressed in pink crepe de chine and carried bouquets of silver roses in their hair, and carried clusters of pink carnations. Mr. Hoag had as his best man Mr. Jenkins, of Newport News, Va., and the ushers were William Powell, Joseph Spansky and Bower Spansky. A very pretty home wedding was celebrated on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the home of the bride, 119 South Second Street, when Miss Sadie Michael became the bride of Harry Weinberg, of Spray, N. C. Rev. A. Shefferman officiated. The house was attractively decorated in palms, white flowers and lighted candles. In the dining room the lights were shaded in yellow and a profusion of jonquils and tulips decorated the table.

Little Miss Dorothy Michael, cousin of the bride, wearing a dainty white frock and carrying white flowers, was flower girl, and Miss Ethel Braver attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a gown of corn-colored mesaline trimmed in pearls, and carried a French basket of jonquils. Philip Weinberg, of Spray, N. C., was the groom's best man.

The bride, who entered with her father, I. Michael, by whom she was given away, wore a handsome gown of duchess satin trimmed in rare old lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Carroll—Herron.
A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Herron in Norfolk Saturday afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Nina B. Herron, became the bride of C. W. At the Women's Club.
The fourth appearance of "The Hardy Annual" at the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. Chiles M. Ferrell as editor-in-chief, was a particularly clever and interesting event. The parlors of the club were filled with the most brilliant audiences ever at the club this winter, and these very handsomely gowned women were most hearty and enthusiastic in their applause.

The "hits" were very kindly in their humor and were well liked. It was indeed a day which article was most pleasing. Mrs. Ferrell made a capital editor-in-chief and her papers were very clever and amusing. Mrs. C. C. Walker, as editor of the jokes and riddles, was most entertaining and was greeted with a great deal of applause. Mrs. C. D. Wingfield, who edited the book reviews, as she expressed it, was sandwiched in between the bits of humor, and her "bird's eye view" of Virginia authors was well chosen and of great value to the club. Perhaps the most delightful papers read were the "Voice of the People," in which Col. Wayback vents delicious bits of cleverness and sarcasm on the would-be suffragettes and aspiring petticoats.

Particularly bright were the witty inquiries and answers, and her parody on "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," in which Dame Fashion effectively removes the "rats" of the present day, and the "modern inventions" of Mrs. John C. Robertson were very clever and amusing.

The reception following was indeed a brilliant gathering of society. Mrs. William Hodges, of Norfolk, wearing a handsome gown of deep violet chiffon cloth, hand-embroidered, with a corsage bouquet of English violets and gardenias, and Mrs. W. D. Thomas, in black lace and American Beauty roses, were hostesses of the afternoon. Mrs. Taylor Ellyson and Mrs. Charles E. Borden poured tea and Mrs. Charles P. Lee and Mrs. James Scott presided at the coffee table.

growing more sympathetic? Ask yourself this question, and answer it honestly.
Next to love (in its large and universal meaning), the love which the great masters of earth have had for all created things, sympathy is the most divine attribute of human nature. It is the love which makes us feel, as we see a poor, old, and dear one. If you are a parent, and your child is dull at school, or if your son or daughter becomes involved in any trouble, which causes unpleasant comment, you feel a deep sense of sympathy for the poor, old, and dear one. It will come with warm, unkind references made to the subject.
But do you show that same sympathy and impulse for the children of other mothers?

How About the Others?
If another woman's son is backward at school, do you speak of him as being inapplicable only, and too full of young life to settle down to his books, as you say of your own, or do you call him a stupid dullard and blockhead and cast ridicule upon him? Sympathy for your own is mere selfishness, unless you exhibit the same sentiment toward others similarly situated.

Are you growing more or less critical toward the young as you advance in life? That is an important thing to decide.

Old age may be ahead of you, lonely old age, where you will be, however, independent financially, dependent upon a younger generation for companionship.

If you are cultivating a caring and kind tendency of speech, if you are severe in your remarks concerning the behavior of the young, you will make a very unhappy future for yourself.

People will do you favors only when paid to do them, but they will shun your society and you alone to your own bitter thoughts.

Perhaps you say the young people of this age are very loud mannered and immodest, and wholly unlike the young people of your own day. But that may be a mistake on your part.

Real Paupers in Life.
It may be the result of the drying up of the stream of sympathy in your nature.

Look back a little more thoroughly along the path of your early youth and you will recall experiences and incidents which will make you realize that young people are very much the same in each era.

However deep a student you may be, however educated and cultured, however rich in worldly things, you are really a pauper (if your heart does not hold sympathy for your fellow mortals, and unless your sympathies grow broader and deeper, and sweeter as you pass along, you have in some way lived wrong, and wasted your life.

For life is a long journey, with its varying experiences and sorrows, and joys to develop our sympathies, and to make us feel the universal kinship. (Copyright, 1910, by The New York Evening Journal Publishing Co.)

FURTHER INCREASE IN P. O. RECEIPTS

Business in Petersburg Amounts to $6,063.75 for Month.

BIG PYTHIAN OCCASION

Congressional Election in Fourth District Will Be Held To-Day.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., March 7.

The post-office receipts during the month of February amounted to $6,063.75, as against $4,944.54 for the corresponding month of last year, an increase of 22 per cent. The business of the office here is increasing from month to month. Seventy-three separate mails—incoming and outgoing—are handled each day, and with the extension of the rural free delivery system, this number may be increased.

Recent enlargement of the Federal building gives more room on the upper floors, but not sufficient room in the post-office department, and a further addition will probably be asked for.

Interesting Pythian Occasion.
The visit of Judge Nellie B. Merriam, of Muskogee, Okla., supreme chief of the Pythian Sisters of the United States, is an event of interest to the Pythians of Petersburg. Mrs. Merriam is the national organizer of the Pythian Sisters, and she was sent here by Mrs. Rice, of Portsmouth, the State organizer. The two distinguished visitors are the guests of the two lodges of Knights of Pythias, and were the recipients of cordial hospitality and courtesies. A reception was extended them by the Pythian Castle hall to-night, when a large company greeted them, and refreshments were served. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Merriam and Mrs. Rice, whose visit will be followed by the organization of a temple of Pythian Sisters here.

Election for Congressman.
The special election ordered
